

through
surrender

portraits of mind and reality vanish
and
it is in this gap
this zone of the unknown
that we release an imprint as indicative of our original nature is a dialogue inherent in our organism revealing all that we once were encoded somewhere in us reaching out beyond the known edges of our selves to touch to sense to reshape to give birth